

'Home from Home' Project

(Celebrating the contributions of British Nigerians to the British society)

Video Recording & Editing Training

Are you passionate about photography, video recording and editing and keen to learn about heritage, arts and culture? If so, the award-winning IROKO Theatre Company in Stratford, East London, has the opportunity for you.

IROKO is looking for 5 young people aged 18 – 25 as Volunteer Photographers/Videographers to assist in their heritage project - 'Home from Home', funded by the National Lottery Heritage Fund. The project aims to celebrate the contributions of British Nigerians to the British society. Successful candidates will undergo three half-days training on oral history video recording and editing skills, delivered by Rosetta Arts.

It is anticipated that after the training, the Volunteer Photographers/Videographers will assist IROKO 'Home from Home' project Volunteer Researchers in documenting 15 oral histories of Nigerian Londoners through photography and video recording. The documentation will form part of the touring exhibitions that will be shared with the local and wider community during the project sharing days activities in community venues, libraries and on also on digital platforms.

If you are aged between 18 – 25 years and interested in this part time volunteering opportunity and are available between now and end of August 2023, we would like to hear from you. Please go to the IROKO Theatre Home Page to register.
